

British Standards Institute Organises Conformity Assessment Training for GSA Inspectors

Doris Mueni, BSI Consultant, leading the training

The British Standards Institute (BSI), under the Standards Partnership Pilot Project, has held a training for Inspectors from the Ghana Standards Authority (GSA).

The training was held at the Fiesta Royale Hotel last week and will continue throughout this week.

The training focused on ISO/IEC 17020: 2012 - Conformity Assessment” - Requirements for the Operation of Various Types of Bodies Performing Inspection and was led by Doris Mueni, a Kenyan and a BSI Consultant.

She took them through the requirements of the standard and encouraged the staff to uphold the elements spelt out in the standard to strengthen the confidence the public has in the Authority’s inspection activities.

The staff were very excited to participate in the training and praised the BSI and GSA for organising the training.

“Such trainings offer us the opportunity to add to the knowledge we have acquired over the years. This training will equip us to take independent and effective decisions when carrying out our inspection activities,” Mrs. Diana Amponsah, Head of Product Inspection, noted.

Group picture of participants at the conformity assessment training

Group exercise on-going